PROJECTS

Spaceship Game (HTML, JavaScript)

- Engineered an engaging spaceship game using HTML and JavaScript, featuring real-time animation, intuitive controls and responsive design for a seamless gaming experience.
- Implemented intricate game logic, including asteroid dynamics, laser-asteroid collisions and challenging elements like spaceship blinking and multiple lives.
- Developed a visually appealing interface with live scoring, high score tracking and scalable visuals.
- Utilized audio cues for events such as laser shots, spaceship thrusting and asteroid collisions.
- Implemented adaptive screen size adjustments to accommodate different devices, ensuring consistent performance and visual quality.

Correlation Between Number of Pregnancies and Type-II Diabetes (Python)

- Explored Kaggle datasets to analyze the relationship between pregnancies and Type-II diabetes in Pima Indian women.
- Cleaned and organized Kaggle datasets meticulously by filtering entries for individuals over 21 and removing unnecessary columns, ensuring clarity and relevance.
- Employed visualization, logistic regression and SVM models to compare datasets and reveal key associations.
- Utilized exploratory data analysis techniques, including descriptive statistics, histograms and point plots.
- Presented visually compelling graphs illustrating the distribution and relationships between key variables, enhancing the interpretability of findings.
